

American Cetacean Society Whales in a Changing World Photo Contest Entry Form

Category (circle one): MYSTICETES ODONTOCETES OTHER

Photographer's name:
Mailing address:
Phone:
Email:
Caption information:
Date photo was taken (may be an approximation):
Location photo was taken:

I declare that I am the author of the photograph submitted to the contest. I further declare that if I am not the copyright holder for this image, I have the permission from the copyright holder to enter it in the American Cetacean Society Whales in a Changing World Photo Contest. In case the image is chosen as a winner, or honorable mention, I grant the American Cetacean Society the right to use it in their publications, materials and website without further compensation.

Signature	Date

All fields in the above Entry Form must be filled out. Caption information should consist of one or two sentences that describe the scene in the photo and the circumstances surrounding it. Please note that we are not asking for a title or for technical information. An example of a caption is: "An albino killer whale spyhops near the research vessel Guppy during cruise in the Tasman Sea in September 2005. The whale is a member of XL pod, the longest known groups of whales in Australian waters."

- Check this box to give permission to ACS to use this photo on the website, in publications and other materials even if it is not a winner or honorable mention in the contest.
- Check this box to donate the print to ACS.